

Weatherboard Cottage

info@barrettpinet.com

Coogee, Sydney 2001-02

BARRETT PINET ARCHITECTURE

Alterations and additions to a two storey cottage. For a better indoor outdoor connection, the living area at the second level opens with new sliding doors onto the extended deck. A new stairway connects the new deck with the terrace level below. The existing indoor spiral stair is replaced by a new straight stairway, connecting first and second level. To take better advantage of the large garden, a bridge and a deck with access from the existing terrace as well as from the lower level of the garden, are also added, creating a new area to entertain below the deck as well. A third level in the attic space with a dormer at the front, new doors and a small balcony as well as a pool were also included in the Development Application and may be built at a later date.

